Arrival of the Escaped Fenians.

NEW YORK, Aug 19—When the ship Catalpa arrived with the six escaped Fenians on board [illegible] dispatches were sent over the city [illegible] of the committee appointed to receive them and shortly after day break they assembled at the Battery and boarded the vessel, meeting the old veterans aboard and welcomed them to the city. Then friends meeting friends laughed and wept in turn. The Catalpa is a slow sailer and consumed nearly four months on the voyage. After some months the stock of provisions was so meager that the men were put on short allowance. They all arrived, however, in good health and spirits. Capt. Anthony, who commanded the Catalpa, has daring mien tempered with a smile. [illegible] One of the most touching incidents of the reception was the meeting with William Foley. Foley was also a soldier in the British army and had seen hard service. In 1866 he was tried on a charge of treason and felony, found guilty and sentenced to 10 years penal servitude. He served with the men who now have arrived and knew them all intimately. The Catalpa lay off [illegible] before Foley's term expired, but he knew her mission and bid her god speed and to day [illegible] his fellow convicts. The men disembarked from the vessel this morning and proceeded to [illegible] hotel where they will temporarily [illegible]. Their names are Michael Harrington, [illegible] Darragh, Jas Wilson, Robert Cranston, Henry Hassett, John J. Boalen alias Col. [illegible] Hammond alias Johnson, John King, [illegible] and Thos Brennan [illegible] Hall.

[illegible] one of the Escaped Fenians.

NEW YORK, Aug 19.—Thomas Henry, one of the [illegible] who arrived on the Catalpa to day, said to [illegible]: "We were expecting for about two [illegible] that we would be rescued from prison. We kept on the alert for movements of any kind [illegible] be turned to our advantage. We were [illegible] of the sailing of the Catalpa and expected [illegible] in March, but we did not hear of her arrival [illegible] a few days before the 17th of April, the day [illegible] we effected our purpose. After breakfast [illegible] the task, about 10 minutes to 8 o'clock, we left [illegible] gates unobserved and entered [illegible] provided for us. Our party [illegible] eleven including outsiders who [illegible] in the front and rear to look out for enemies, [illegible] Rockingham at 11:30 A. M., where a whale boat from the Catalpa was lying, and got on [illegible] boat's crew were then in charge of an officer [illegible]. During the journey by land we [illegible] though we met several persons. [illegible] were 2¼ miles from shore the police came [illegible] captured our horses and carriages which [illegible] left on the beach. We had great trouble [illegible] the Catalpa, and the police got a boat and searching for us. A storm arose and blew us [illegible], and our provisions were destroyed and [illegible] all wet. Night came on and we were in a [illegible] condition. When daylight broke we [illegible] the Catalpa and made for her. When about [illegible] miles from the vessel we saw the colonial [illegible], and the police cutter searching. But they couldn't see us owing to the [illegible]. The police kept the Catalpa in [illegible] while the steamer went to land. We were [illegible] from land and near Rottenness [illegible] with all strength to the bark. At this [illegible] and police had discovered us and was fast pulling towards us, but we headed the police cutter and reached the Catalpa first. [illegible] on board the crew of the bark gave [illegible] was rushed over to the other side of the [illegible] drew our revolvers and presented them at [illegible] of the seven men in the police boat. The [illegible] was commissioned by government [illegible] follow us. The bark could not go to sea [illegible] as the wind was dead ahead. Next [illegible] the Georgette bore down on us and demanded [illegible] the captain of the Catalpa to give up the [illegible]. The latter refused, and the Georgette [illegible] for shore. Four thousand dollars have been [illegible] for the relief of the prisoners."

WASHINGTON CITY.

Death of Speaker Kerr.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—The following dispatch is received:

ROCK BRIDGE ALUM SPRINGS, W Va., Aug 19.

Our friend Mr Kerr died about 7 o'clock this evening. I have been by his side for two days. His last hours were painless as he so much desired. His composure was as remarkable as it was heroic. He was thoroughly content and prepared for the unseen world. He was conscious and intelligent, gentle and brave to the end. His disease was consumption of the bowels, but toward the last other parts were affected. He has been for days past in fact a disembodied intellect—a mere skeleton. Everything possible to be done at this remote spot to soften this blow to his family by throwing tenderest care around his dying bed has been done and the last offices will be performed with all the thoughtfulness they could ask. We have sent to the officers of the House at Washington for an escort. His body will be taken to New Albany Monday.

S S COX.

Kerr's death cast a gloom over the city to night. Sayler and several of the House representatives will go on to the Virginia springs and accompany the remains to Indiana. Mr Kerr suffered greatly but his mind remained clear.

Kerr's Body to be Embalmed.

WASHINGTON, Aug 20.—An embalmer was sent to Rock Bridge Alum Springs last night to embalm the body of the late Speaker Kerr and to-night the casket for his remains was forwarded. The party accompanying it included representatives Sayler and H Casey Young together with Col Adams, clerk of the House, under whose direction, in absence of authorized agencies, the preparations were made.

There is much dissatisfaction at the failure of the House to make some informal effort to pay proper respect to the funeral of Speaker Kerr, who it was known would not live during the week before the House adjourned. Nothing is now being done with official authority. Mr Sayler, who leaves for Virginia at midnight, has concluded if possible to bring Mr Kerr's remains this way and have them lay one day in the rotunda of the Capitol before taking them away.

Effect in the Navy of Democratic "Retrenchment."

CHICAGO, Aug 19.—The Journal's Washington special says: One of the disgraceful results of the pretended retrenchment legislation in the House is revealed by examination of a recent order of the Secretary of the Navy placing on retired list a sufficient number of naval officers to bring the pay of the navy within the appropriation. Under this compulsory reduction many of the most distinguished naval heroes will be reduced almost to beggary and placed on pay of the retired lists, and the pay of officers below that grade will be less than that of many classes of the enlisted men, such as firemen, boatswains, mates and cooks. Among those who will be reduced are Vice Admiral Rowan, who was promoted for eminent services over the heads of such men as Dahlgren, Davis, Goldsborough and Morton, and who is cut down to $3,000. Rear Admirals Almy, Leary, Reed, Wood and Trenchard, all of whom fought in the Mexican war, in China and during the rebellion, are reduced to $2,500, or less than most of them received twenty years ago. Commanders Balch, Preble, Spotts, Donaldson, Crosby, Crampton, Hughes and Caldwell will receive $1,400. Captains like Ransom, Hopkins, Temple, Truxton, Mayo and Harmony are reduced to $1,400. Equally the pay of young boys who graduated from the naval academy half a dozen years ago be reduced. About twenty commanders will necessarily be retired at $1,150 per annum. About 50 commanders at $1,100, probably 100 lieutenants at $800 and $900, and about the same number of masters, ensigns and midshipmen at $600, $400 and $500. The result cannot fail to cause great distress among these and among the lower classes, and seriously imperil the morale of the service.

Off for Long Branch.

WASHINGTON, Aug 19.—The President with his family left Washington this morning for Long Branch.

Col. Rufus Ingalls ordered to San Francisco.

Col. H. L. C. Eaton has been ordered to relieve Col Rufus Ingalls, Assistant Q M General, of his duties in charge of the general department of the quartermaster's department at New York. Col. Ingalls, upon being relieved, will report to headquarters military division for duty as chief quartermaster of division and in charge of quartermaster's department at San Francisco. Col. Ingalls is authorized to take with him two of his employes.

Dismissed the Service.

Pay Inspector R. Chandler, who was on duty at San Francisco when his clerk Tinney absconded with government funds, having been tried by court martial and found guilty of neglect of duty and conduct unbecoming an officer and sentenced to be dismissed from the service, the Acting Secretary of the Navy to-day issued an order directing that the accused be dismissed from and after the 10th inst.

Unfavorable News from Crook and Terry.

Unfavorable news from Crook and Terry, pretended to come by way of some point in Utah, was printed this afternoon. Gen Sherman attaches no credit whatever to it and says it is perfectly evident from information he received officially concerning their movements that the story was manufactured. He thinks the Indians will scatter and no combined attack will be made. Gen. Sheridan holds the same opinion.

The Siamese Exhibits for Philadelphia.

WASHINGTON, Aug 19.—The government of Siam sometime ago made up a valuable collection of products of that country to be placed on exhibition at Philadelphia and then to be presented to the government of the United States. Through some unfortunate misunderstanding with our consul at Bangkok, the shipment of the goods, in all filling 258 cases, was delayed. The matter having been brought to the attention of Rear Admiral Reynolds, he had them sent to Hongkong, and from there shipped to San Francisco to the care of the navy paymaster. Upon their arrival at San Francisco a short time ago they were detained for non payment of duties. The acting secretary of the navy has called the attention of the Secretary of the Treasury to the fact and requests him to send permission to the custom house for their transhipment either to the Philadelphia custom house or the Centennial Commission. The acting secretary of the navy has also signified his willingness to have the packages repaired and properly shipped if the necessary permit be given.

Reduction in the Force of Gaugers.

The commissioner of internal revenue says a reduction in the force of gaugers will be gradually made, such as are designated for discharge under the retrenchment order to be dropped when their duties are fulfilled. It is stated at the bureau of internal revenue it will be impossible for the [illegible] tax on whisky [illegible] of the [illegible] reduction to be made in that bureau under the act [illegible] of Congress. [illegible] and detectives will be employed who must be provided for in the deficiency bill next winter.

No Pardon for the Whisky Thieves.

CHICAGO, Aug. 19.—The Times' Washington special says: It is stated at the department of justice that the question of the Chicago whisky convicts' pardon was [illegible] to [illegible] he [illegible] leaving this morning and [illegible] orders [illegible] to get the [illegible] to order a pardon [illegible] the head of the [illegible]. The President [illegible] who [illegible] to the Attorney General and will not act contrary to his recommendation.

In the St Louis [illegible] argument have been presented [illegible] Attorney [illegible] it is expected he will end [illegible] the [illegible].

Postal Changes.

Postmasters appointed—[illegible] Lake county, Oregon; [illegible] Dix [illegible] county, Oregon; [illegible] Wexler, State Creek [illegible] county, Oregon; [illegible] Walla Walla county, W T.

Democratic Censures on the House.

CHICAGO, Aug [illegible]—The [illegible] Washington special [illegible] the [illegible] characterize the [illegible] as [illegible] of the rankest [illegible] all kind and utterly false [illegible] only few [illegible] again a number of [illegible] whose services [illegible] great [illegible] of these all these [illegible] will be entitled to relief at the next or some future session of Congress, but in the meanwhile they will be subjected to extreme hardships and the morals of the service will be seriously impaired.

Change of Stations of Troops in South Carolina.

During the past week the stations of three companies of troops have been changed in South Carolina.

POLITICAL.

Splendid Speech of Senator Booth.

NEW YORK, Aug [illegible]—[illegible] the [illegible] which the [illegible] Republican [illegible] Governor Harris [illegible] Senator Booth [illegible] votes. Booth had no intention of making any public utterances for several days yet but they [illegible] upon the platform. He was carried away by the enthusiasm of the moment. Those nearest him saw he was greatly affected and for an instant while he began the [illegible] then in clear ringing accents he made this remarkable speech: [illegible] so far [illegible] my heart as it has not been thrilled [illegible] to day I stand for the first time in my native State to speak to my fellow citizens upon political questions. I can only congratulate [illegible] citizens of Indiana that they have a leader in the canvass who bears the historic name to which he adds lustre by his own abilities and patriotism. I can only rejoice with you that the first Governor of the Territory of Indiana will give us a Governor in this Centennial year. I do not deny that so far as I am personally concerned I recognize that there are great political questions bearing upon us in the near future that are not touched on by the divisions between the Republican and Democratic party; great questions of finance, great questions of fiscal policy [illegible] reform and administration; but when I find the Democratic party as a compacted mass cherishing its old traditions, animated by its old hates, all other questions in my mind are subordinate to its defeat and destruction. I know not what others may think, but as for me I can see no road to progress that does not lead over its ruin. For 15 years it has stood in the pathway of our advance; for 15 years it has resisted every great political idea; for 15 years it has endeavored to suppress every grand political utterance, and the time has come, yea, the fullness of time, when it should cumber the ground no longer. I don't deny that the Republican party has had corrupt men sometimes for its agents, but look at the past behind us, think of the great questions it has confronted, think of the hundreds of thousands that it has employed, think of the difficulties it has passed through, work it has accomplished, and it seems miraculous that its mistakes have not been more and greater than they have been; but they are as the bends of a river that do not deflect its channel as it rushes to the sea. And there is this to be said, that it made the country's extremity its divine opportunity; that when the catastrophe came over us that good men all over the world supposed would destroy us, it snatched victory even from grim defeat, and made the event that was to blot us out from among the nations the opportunity to fix upon our policy the seal of universal freedom, and made it the guarantee of an indissoluble union. To say that this speech, which hardly occupied five minutes in delivery, produced a great effect is not to describe the scene. There was roar after roar of applause, and if Booth had not escaped by a side door he would have been carried on the shoulders of the multitude to the station. With this incident of great significance, and with the promise from Booth that he will make speeches in the State before going home, Gen Harrison began his canvass.

California and Nevada Sure for Hayes and Wheeler.

NEW YORK, Aug 20.—A Times Columbus dispatch says private advices arrived here from San Francisco to-day representing that California and Nevada are sure for Hayes and Wheeler. The Republicans in both States are united, thoroughly organized and exceedingly confident of success. In California the Independents, led by Booth, will almost to a man support the Republican party. Hayes is receiving a great many calls from persons passing through Columbus from nearly all parts of the United States. These callers bring very encouraging information as to the progress of the canvass in various States, and with one voice declare their implicit confidence in a sweeping Republican victory in November.

Senator Booth Interviewed.

A western newspaper reporter has interviewed Booth. The latter said the tender of the second place on the Independent ticket was a complete surprise to him, for while he entertained a very high regard for Mr Cooper, and esteemed it an honor to have his name associated with that gentleman, yet he had never expressed himself as being in full accord with the greenback party. The nomination was made on account of his having been an advocate of the interconvertible bond theory and because of his election as U. S. Senator by the Independent party in California. The Independent party in California was not to be confounded with the National Independent party. The former was a political necessity in his State, organized to break up railroad monopolies, and had no connection as such with the national party. In fact it was a purely political organization. The Senator further stated that he declined the nomination at once, being convinced the time had not arrived for the possible success of either his financial theories or those of his greenback friends. He handed the delegation that waited upon him his letter of declination, but they begged that they might be allowed to withhold its publication until after the 1st of July. As their communications with him had been of a very courteous and pleasant nature he assented and suffered them to take it away without his retaining a press copy, but he was astonished to find that up to this time they had neglected to give it to the public. It placed him in the position of treating with discourtesy or being enabled to determine the matter in a reasonable time. Speaking of the prospects of the present campaign he said the general result depended upon the Indiana and Ohio elections. One remarkable inconsistency of the Democratic party is that while in the East the Democrats were for hard money, the Democrats of the West construed the St Louis platform as declaring for soft money. His own State (California) would like the rest be influenced by the results of the October elections. The financial question did not affect it as it had always been for hard money, wishing none other, yet the fact must not be overlooked that Tilden had many friends there on account of his hard money utterances. He felt sure however California would go Republican because of its Union proclivities. He was of opinion that the financial question would not decide the coming Presidential election and that the greenback party could not carry a State ticket. He doubted even if they had a full State ticket anywhere outside Indiana, and in some States as in Tennessee they had no ticket. Democratic greenbackers would by the time the election took place cast their votes for Tilden and Hendricks, and on the other hand Republicans who held to the greenback theory were a class of leading men, and with their characteristic tenaciousness would probably stand to their fragmentary ticket and vote for Cooper and Carey. They cannot win, said the Senator, but they will assert their opinions. Greenbackers were well spread over the continent, but were not an element of strength outside of Indiana, and even there their doctrines had paled beside the importance of other issues of the campaign. He believed that one great imminent danger to the Republican party was this: that the masses, suffering from the hard times of the past two years, may fall into an erroneous belief that a change of government is all that is needed to better their condition, and would readily follow the direction pointed out by demagogues of the Democratic party. Care should be taken to disabuse the minds of the people of the impression that the government had anything whatever to do with the season of financial suffering. [illegible] Booth said he would take an active part in the campaign for the election of Hayes and Wheeler, and was anxious to get home to California to attend to private affairs as well as to aid in the success of the national Republican ticket in that State. [illegible] possible after a short visit to his old home at [illegible] Haute he would deliver a few speeches in Indiana before final departure for the West.

New York Republican Convention.

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—The Republican State Convention at Saratoga next Wednesday [illegible] much [illegible] interest. The best [illegible] to day is that Cornell's nomination for governor if [illegible] will only [illegible] defeat [illegible] Morgan's nomination. [illegible] there is no stain on his public or private character, but [illegible] he has the nomination [illegible] of extensive prejudice against him [illegible] friends [illegible] to show [illegible] strength in the [illegible]. His nomination is certain [illegible] the latter breaks. Some think his success [illegible]. The opposition [illegible] hardly the [illegible] the other [illegible] with the [illegible] It is [illegible] that the [illegible] personal [illegible] these [illegible] who [illegible] Wheeler [illegible] Morgan [illegible] carry the [illegible] South Carolina [illegible] to be treated [illegible].

ATLANTIC CABLE.

Banquet to Wagner.

BAYREUTH, Aug 20.—[illegible] were present at the [illegible] last night given in honor of Herr Wagner. After making a speech [illegible] Herr Wagner was crowned with a silver included wreath.

NEW YORK, Aug 19.—The [illegible] Bayreuth special [illegible] the Wagner [illegible] was a splendid [illegible] in the character of guests [illegible] were present. Wagner made a long speech explanatory of his words uttered during the festival. The remarks then [illegible] meaning only that France and Italy having operas of their own, Germany wished that the two could now have a new lyric and dramatic art. He then thanked the artists to whom all were indebted. He also thanked the people of Bayreuth who had helped him so much and showed so much interest in his work. He next expressed in warm terms his gratitude to the managing committee and said that to them his success was largely due. As he finished the guests and public outside of the hall applauded the echo and cried "Hoch, hoch, hoch! Wagner." Wagner was then escorted about half the guests rising and saluting him as he passed. Madame Lucca and his wife were with him. At the head of his walk his Milan publisher placed a silver crown made in imitation of laurel leaves on his head. The composer was deeply touched and made a second speech expressive of the great impression which the festival had produced on him. Deputy Dunker, of Berlin, made the most happy address. Warm congratulations were also extended to Wagner by Von Buest and M Appanji. Then Wagner paid a glowing tribute to Lessecr, his old friend and teacher, saying that but for that great man no note would ever have been heard from him. The venerable Lessecr rose and said with great emotion, "Other countries have their Dante and Shakspeare, and then turning to Wagner, "So am I your most obedient servant." He was visibly affected. After this touching scene, Wagner, amid merriment, commenced an endless handshaking with those present. There was no end of kissing and the scene was unique and aptly illustrated in the artist fraternity and good humor of the assemblage. The demonstrations were more expressive of real interest in the success of the performance than anything witnessed. The whole affair was a fitting close of the grand festival.

Servian War News.

BELGRADE, Aug 20.—Dispatches from Gen Tchernayeff to Prince Milan report his army as perfectly reorganized, and ready to resume the offensive.

An extraordinary cabinet council was held yesterday, Prince Milan presiding, at which it was resolved to continue the war to the last extremity.

The Prince of Montenegro, understanding that the Turks intended to invade Montenegro, has left his brother in law in command of the troops in Herzegovina and has marched with eight battalions into Montenegro.

RAGUSA, Aug 19.—Prince Milan has invested Colonel Despotovics with the chief command of the insurgents in Bosnia, who has defeated the Turks at Retrovatz, setting fire to the town. The Turks have left the Austrian frontier and are concentrating in the vicinity of Seveno. A body of about 5,000 Turks has been defeated at Banguopon. The Turkish forces now in the vicinity of Albania are estimated at 40,000.

VIENNA, Aug 19.—A political correspondent announces that great excitement again prevails in Crete.

Dispatch from the Porte to Aristatrichi Bey.

WASHINGTON, Aug 19.—Aristatrichi Bey, Turkish minister, has received an official declaration of the Turkish government, dated Constantinople 9th, giving the history of the commencement of hostilities with Servia and Montenegro, and sets forth the concessions made to Servia under the treaty of Paris. It speaks of the efforts of the Porte to aid in developing the prosperity of the principality. The strife was caused by a few ambitious and restless men who sacrificed to vain popularity the true interests of the country, and, from the beginning of the insurrection in Herzegovina have by every means in their power aided the insurgents. Notwithstanding their disloyalty the greatest forbearance had been shown by the Porte, and, taking advantage of its pacific disposition, they prepared to take an active part in the insurrection. Finally affairs reached such a point that the Imperial government was compelled formally to ask the authorities at Belgrade to explain the reason for the concentration of Servian troops near the Turkish Vilayets. Prince Milan, in reply, charged the responsibility of military measures upon the Porte, and addressed a letter asking that his troops be allowed to enter Bosnia for the purpose, as he said, of pacifying that country, and concluded by declaring that in case of refusal he was resolved to act accordingly. In the meantime his agent at Constantinople requested that Servia be given to Bosnia on condition of paying an annual tribute. Without awaiting any reply, the Servians invaded a Turkish province, and the Prince of Montenegro also declared hostility. The Porte was therefore compelled to repel aggression by force, and thus commenced the war. The letter then goes on to state how the Porte had religiously adhered to the treaty of Paris, and places upon the Princes of Servia and Montenegro the blame of having broken their treaty stipulations. The letter concludes as follows: Confiding in the justice of our case all our efforts shall tend toward a vigorous prosecution of the struggle waged against us. We will try to bring it to a speedy close. By this means we shall be able to execute sooner the reforms and improvements which our august sovereign has a firm will to introduce in the empire, and which shall give to our populations the material and moral comforts they have the right to expect from His Majesty.

Turkish Defeats Confirmed.

LONDON, Aug 18.—The London Daily News' dispatch from Cattaro says the report of the Turkish defeat at Bresanski on the 8th is confirmed. The Turkish loss is estimated at 1,000. General Tchernayeff is reported to have issued an order that all the Basins and Bashi Bazouks be shot without parley when captured.

Smallpox.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug 19.—From [illegible] until 6 o'clock this morning, a Chinaman in the last stages of confluent smallpox lay on the street at the corner of Pacific and Stockton streets to the terror and disgust of passers by. He was finally removed by employes of the health office. Deaths by smallpox for the last week [illegible] 62 new cases reported. Five cases were brought to the notice of the health office this morning and one death.

Anti-Hoodlum Measures to be Taken.

The scenes of violence and hoodlumism which have recently disgraced the city and the comments of the press on the question have roused the authorities to more energetic action. The statement recently published that the citizens in the neighborhood of Hayes valley were considering the propriety of organizing a vigilance committee for self protection has had the effect to call out a lengthy address from the chief of police, which was read to the force to night, deprecating the recent reign of lawlessness and urging the officers to increased vigilance in the discharge of their duties. The inadequacy of the police force in point of numbers is very generally recognized by the community, and considerable criticism is also bestowed on the present arrangements for disposing of offenders against the peace. When an arrest is made the officers are obliged in order to lock up their prisoners, to travel in some cases two or three miles, leaving his beat in the meantime unguarded. The expediency of establishing precinct station houses in different parts of the city is attracting attention. It is thought that some such provision would greatly facilitate the work of maintaining good order.

Complaints against Coasters.

Complaints come from the quarantine office that owners of coasting vessels willfully neglect to use proper precautions to prevent the spread of smallpox. Circumstances are cited where captains of vessels have smuggled smallpox patients ashore to boarding houses in order to cause no expense to the vessel. A captain is reported to have received strict orders from his owners not to allow his vessel to be quarantined at any hazard, but to run the gauntlet of the quarantine boat, and send his patients ashore in the night. The captain did not obey these instructions, but anchored his vessel at quarantine ground and waited for the doctor to come. The owners, who are large lumber dealers, threatened to discharge the captain for disobeying orders.

The Bank of California Sues Ralston's Executors and Heirs.

The Bank of California instituted suit in the twelfth judicial court to-day against John D Fry and A J Ralston, executors of the will of W C Ralston, William Sharon, Lizzie Fry Ralston, Maurice Dore, Thomas Brown and Henry F Williams, alleging that on September 9th 1870, the defendant Henry F. Williams conveyed to W C Ralston a large amount of real estate enumerated in trust for moneys advanced by plaintiff and praying that a suitable person be appointed in his stead to carry out said trust.

An "Irregular" Supervisor.

Ex Supervisor During is charged with serious irregularity. He is accused of collecting $495 from the city on behalf of Mr Clarke, of Blue Lands, and appropriating the money to his own use. The records of the auditor's office show that During acted as Clarke's agent. The demand was reduced from $500 to $495 to obviate the necessity of passing an authorization to print. Clarke's version is that During solicited permission to make the collection from the city. It is not known whether Mr. Clarke will institute legal proceedings.

Suing for a Slice of the Bonanza Ledge.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug 20.—The latest attempt to secure a slice of the Comstock Bonanza is in the shape of a suit about being instituted against the California Mining Company by an individual who avers and alleges as follows: That the plaintiff was and still is owner of twelve feet of ground now occupied by the California mine; that the title of the present owners of the ground the California Mining Company to these twelve feet is a conveyance from the plaintiff which he alleges is fraudulent, and that the signatures of the supposed witnesses to the conveyance are forgeries.

Rejoicing over the Escape of the Fenians.

News having been received in this city of the Fenian prisoners who escaped from Australia in the whale ship Catalpa, a meeting has been called of Irish American citizens, to take place at American Hall on Tuesday evening next under the auspices of the Knights of Red Branch. The meeting is called as an expression of sentiment and to raise such practical aid in assistance of the escaped prisoners as may suggest itself.

Distressing Accident.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug 20.—About 5 this afternoon as Paul Duffy, who lives at South San Francisco, was crossing the bridge beyond Potrero cut on his way home, he saw lying half covered by mud and water in the bed of the creek what he supposed at a casual glance to be a hog. On reaching home his wife asked him if he had seen their little boy, aged about eight years, who had been away from the house since the middle of the afternoon. The thought of the object he had seen in the creek flashed first on his mind, and returning to the spot, he found it to be the body of his son. The little fellow had evidently fallen from the bridge and the tide ebbing left the corpse in the slime of the creek bottom.

Grand Republican Ratification Meeting.

SAN JOSE, Aug 19.—It seems as if the surrounding country had been depopulated to furnish its quota to the throng. Immediately after dark, bonfires were lighted on the corners of the main streets and on each side of the handsomely lighted speakers' stand, which had been erected in front of the Austin House, and the delegations began to pour in. At 7:30 the battalion known as the Hayes and Wheeler Scouts formed at [illegible] hall, their uniform consisting of light blue army cloth with marbleized cape, with the name of the organization printed thereon, and a red waist sash. There were 300 in uniform. As they moved through the principal streets to the music of a brass band they looked splendid and were much admired and deported themselves accordingly. They were joined by the Hayes and Wheeler club from Santa Clara and other towns. The meeting was called to order by Wm. H. Rogers of Los Gatos, the following being named as vice presidents: Thos. Fallon, G. W. Reynolds, C. W. Pomeroy, H. H. Reynolds, R. A. Clark, J. Hillard Beans, D. N. Taylor, South Teck, J. Reynolds, J. B. Spencer, F. C. Brick, J. J. Somthorpe, G. L. McDoughall and Jas. A. Lotz. The chairman then came forward and introduced the Demosthenes of the Pacific coast, Gov. Geo. H. Woods of Oregon and Utah. He was received with loud applause, and after a charming introductory, opened out on the history of the Republican party and its grand achievement up to the present time. He then took as his theme the record of the Democratic party for the same time, giving it a scathing for being the hot bed of corruption and infamy. He then turned to the Hon. Samuel J. Tilden, charging him with being unfit to be called anything but a rebel sympathizer and associate of thieving rings. He charged Tilden with being in sympathy with the New York rioters and the leaders of the rebellion; gave a history of his doings in the Chicago convention. Speaking upward of 2½ hours, holding the assemblage as it by enchantment by the grand magic of his oratory. The Democrats, though disliking his opinions, gave him credit for being the ablest speaker on this coast. He made several attempts to desist, but the loud solicitation of the multitude indicate that they would not tire of him for hours. It is now 10:00 and it is not probable any other speaker will be introduced to night.

Suicide.

ALBANY, Aug 20.—Americus Savage, an old and respected farmer about 75 years of age residing at Boston Mills near Shedd station, arose early yesterday morning, left on his table a letter of farewell and instructions to his family, passed into his orchard, hanged his hat and vest on an apple tree, lay down and spread a blanket over himself, placed a Smith & Wesson revolver against his right temple and produced instant death. He wrote that dread of consumption prompted the act, and requested them to bury him just as he was found.

The Roseburg Independent says that John Dunn, late of Nevada, has the smallpox, and that a man named Johnson, a nephew of Frank Kenyon, has all the premonitory symptoms of the dreadful disease. Dunn and Johnson were passengers on the John L. Stephens when that steamer brought the sick Chinaman to Portland, and contracted the disease during the trip. They are both cared for by the people at Roseburg.

The Douglas county Independent says the clean up in the Esther mine has taken place, with a yield to the amount of 50 ounces for less than a month's run. The ore worked was of an inferior quality and the result is highly satisfactory to the stockholders of the company, who did not anticipate half the yield stated. This month the mill will run upon a better quality of rock and with the use of improved machinery ordered from San Francisco it will make a much better showing.

The conference of the M. E. church at La Grande last week took action on the two propositions submitted by the general conference. The first was a proposition to change the ratio of representation in general conference so that that body will not be so large. The vote stood 10 for and 0 against. The second was a proposition to allow the conference to determine the number of districts provided that no conference shall have less than 2 or more than 8. The vote stood 8 for and 6 against, the presiding elders all voting against.

THE GREATEST DANGER.

In the present state of popular sentiment the greatest danger to the success of the Republican party in the election of Hayes and Wheeler, arises not from the opposition of the Democracy, but from the too officious support which they are liable to receive from a quarter where it were better they had only a passive acquiescence. We allude to that class of office-holding politicians who are always active and more or less noisy in election times as a means of propitiating the powers that are to be, and securing continuation of themselves and their retainers in office. The present administration has been in the hands of that sort of men, who surrounded the President and took possession of the Government as soon as he was elected, and have run the Government in ring interests to an extent that has alienated from the Administration a very numerous class of the original Republicans of the country. These selfish politicians went to Cincinnati to nominate some one of their own crowd for President; but they soon discovered that they must fail in that. The current of public sentiment, as represented in the Convention, was setting so strong against the Washington ring that their best efforts could secure for Mr. Morton only enough votes to warrant the statement hereafter that at a certain time and place his name was mentioned in National Convention in connection with the nomination for President. But this ring are always zealous partisans when there is a prospect of getting control of spoils by it, and when party lines have been so [illegible] that they could in no event expect any favors from the adverse party. So we shall in all likelihood have all Mortons and Spencers, et id genus omne raging through the country and beating the unresisting air; apparently in the interest of Hayes and Wheeler—really in their own interest. The Federal Legion throughout the country will feel called upon to make Hayes feel himself under overwhelming obligations to them [illegible] his election, in order that they hold [illegible] the fat positions which they have [illegible] able to corrupt and control [illegible] elections as heretofore. If they [illegible] to place Hayes under a real obligation to them, they would make them[illegible] just as little conspicuous as possible [illegible] this campaign. Whatever gives color [illegible] truth to the charge made by the Dem[illegible] that Hayes is the candidate of the [illegible]gton ring, damages Hayes more be[illegible] the people than can possibly be counterbalanced by any advantage it may seem [illegible]. The people have made up their [illegible] to have a change of programme, [illegible] they need only to be satisfied the [illegible] of Hayes means a continuation of [illegible] administration"—as the [illegible] styles it—to determine [illegible] to seek the demanded change, how[illegible] [illegible]tly, in a transfer of the [illegible] of government to the opposition. [illegible] are [illegible] voters feeling just that [illegible] to turn the scale in some of the [illegible] States, and it must not be lost [illegible] of that the Republicans, to be successful, must carry nearly all the doubtful [illegible]. Let the recognized representa[illegible] ring politics and of the present [illegible] appear prominently in [illegible] of the candidate, and suspicions [illegible] be aroused which, though ill-[illegible] will be as damaging as [illegible] are unquestionably just. How [illegible] it be in this State for instance? [illegible] to disguise the fact that the [illegible] in Oregon will be close. Neither [illegible] has a margin sufficiently broad to [illegible] the needless alienation of a single [illegible]. Suppose that certain men heretofore prominent whom it is unnecessary [illegible] by name, should advance to the [illegible] in this campaign as they have done [illegible] past, is any so blind as not to see [illegible] the result would be damaging and [illegible] be fatal to their party? There is, [illegible] hope, not a man in the State who [illegible] vote for the Republican candidates [illegible] such circumstances, who would not [illegible] so under any other circumstances; [illegible] there are many who now expect to [illegible] for Hayes would accept the activity [illegible] the ring as evidence that the triumph of the Republicans would be a new lease of power to the Washington ring politicians, and would choose what they would [illegible] as a less[illegible] evil.

We make these remarks in no other [illegible] than a desire to present the truth as it exists, and not out of unfriendly feeling toward any. If Republicans are going to put their shoulders to the wheel and make a united effort, "with a long pull and a strong pull and a pull altogether" for Hayes and Wheeler, and Richard Williams, as we do most earnestly hope they will, they must in the first place understand the facts of the case, and each [illegible] to the position in the campaign where he can best serve the general purpose. Let there be no jealousies, no selfish schemes to make profit out of the election, and no foolish clamoring for the place of honor in the contest. This is the policy that is being urged in the East, and it is certainly the only safe policy for the Republicans of Oregon.

THE CAMPAIGN OF SHAMS.

It is interesting to watch the contest going on among the Democratic organs in the East for the honor of "getting away" with the St. Louis Convention. The inflationist organs point to the resolution demanding the repeal of the resumption clause of the act of January 14, 1857, and the nomination of Hendricks for Vice President, as evidence that their wing of the party controlled the convention; and the hard-money organs insist the nomination of Tilden is proof positive and irrefragable that their wing are entitled to the honor of running the convention. If this were really a dispute about the honor of performing an act which, at the very best, could confer no high honor on anybody, the spectacle the organs are making of themselves would be simply amusing; but it is more than that. If either party can truthfully claim the victory, the other is in an awkward position to support the nominations. But such is not the case. The only victory in the convention was the triumph of policy over principle, of craft over candor. Tilden and his backers went to the convention stoutly opposing the repeal of the resumption act, and Hendricks and his backers went there clamoring for repeal and denouncing the hard-money men as enemies of the people and instruments of the bloated bondholders. Hendricks was their candidate for President, and they would not hear of Tilden in connection with the nomination. But they had not been there long before they perceived that the triumph of either wing, would be certain defeat to the ticket. So Tilden compromised away his principles, and Hendricks compromised away his principles, and both stultified themselves. In order to get votes from the inflation wing in the final struggle in November, Tilden turned his back on all the professions of his past life, and Hendricks surrendered his aspirations for the Presidency and his opposition to the "bullionists," and the two agreed to eat dirt together. The campaign, so far as the Democracy are concerned, is a campaign of shams, and the object of all this robust rhetoric on the part of the organs of the two wings is to delude their respective factions of the party into the belief that their particular views are in the ascendant in the party and will become the policy of the government in the event of the success of the ticket. They bluster about their assumed victory, as if it were a matter of pride with themselves, but in reality it is an adroit attempt to defraud their followers. The bare fact that an avowed inflationist and wet nurse of the rag baby is running on the same ticket with a man who but yesterday was the central figure in the opposition to every scheme for the dilution and debasement of the currency, and both upon a platform capable of being interpreted one way or the other, as the occasion may seem to require, is enough to satisfy any rational person that the whole thing is intended as a fraud upon the uninitiated, cooked up by the manipulators in order to secure power and pelf for themselves. No wonder many Democrats are disgusted with it. The wonder is that any intelligent person who is not one of the conspirators should give countenance to the scheme for a moment.

The Standard is rejoiced that Lane voted in Congress to repeal the resumption act. A while ago the Standard was a roaring hard money paper; now it is one of the organs of the repudiationists. The secret of the change is that "the party" has gone back on its hard-money pretences and the Standard dares not hold opinions at variance with "the party." Tilden struck his colors to the repudiationists, and then Lafayette Lane did likewise, and now the Standard eats dirt. But naturally desirous of making its course appear consistent, or at least presenting a plausible excuse for its change of base, the Standard says the resumption act ought to have been repealed because, although it provided for resumption, which is by all means desirable, it failed to provide any adequate means for resuming. Then why did not the Democratic statesmen—why did not Mr. Lane introduce a bill making the requisite provision for resuming? The whole case would then have been fully met. But, no. The Democracy, instead of perfecting the law for returning to specie, if it needs perfecting, repeal it, and Mr. Lafayette Lane, in the face of a universal adverse sentiment among his constituents, votes to go back to the greenback system. That is all there is of it, no matter how much it may be glossed over by the Democratic organs.

We find in the Philadelphia Telegraph a synopsis of an address delivered by Hon. H. H. Gilfry, at the Centennial Exposition grounds, upon the resources of Oregon. The address is the fourth of a series of addresses on the resources of the respective States, and from the synopsis before us we are sure Oregon's place in the course was well filled.

A Western paper has taken pains to get at the cost and expenses of the Centennial celebration and the income thus far realized from it, and has arrived at the conclusion that it is going to result in a loss of something like $4,000,000.

Italy is a patriotic country. She pays $80,000,000 per annum to sustain the standing army, and $5,000,000 for educational purposes.

IN THE MATTER OF SILVER.

PORTLAND, Aug. 19, 1876.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

The views which you have recently expressed on the silver question, so-called, seem candid and well-considered. Your readers note with satisfaction that you are not among those who have assumed that silver ought to be no longer coined or esteemed as money. This assumption is but recent; it evidently is an error which proceeds largely from mistaken application of the argument against the irredeemable greenback to the existing condition of the silver market and the present relative value of silver as a commodity. You justly remark that neither gold or silver has a fixed value with respect to other things, and it is equally evident that their values constantly vary in respect to each other. I beg leave to state a few points which may somewhat elucidate the present bearings of the silver question, but which did not appear to fall within the scope of your treatment of the subject.

In 1792 Congress, by express enactment, declared the silver dollar the unit of our money. The same act fixed the weight of gold and silver coins of the United States, and both were made a legal tender to any amount. Silver, equally with gold, was recognized as money by the constitution, and it so stands in that instrument to-day, and a quarter of a century ago, after the discovery of gold in such vast quantities in California and elsewhere, the value of this metal as compared with silver has declined. The latter being then worth more as bullion than as coin was exported, and in 1853 Congress reduced the amount of pure silver in the half dollar and smaller coins. In consequence of this debasement they were prohibited as a legal tender in greater sums than five dollars. But the old silver dollar remained unchanged. Its former weight and standard of fineness were preserved, and it was a legal tender to any amount. Its weight was 371¼ grains of pure silver. This dollar was at a premium as compared with gold, until a time quite recent. In 1873 an act was surreptitiously passed through Congress to set aside the silver dollar as a unit of value, and to substitute the gold dollar for it. This provision attracted no attention in Congress. It went through without discussion, and no member heard a reason assigned for it. It is not unfair to say that it was smuggled through, for this is the literal fact. Now that the attention of the country is drawn to the manner in which silver, which the people have always regarded as money, has been degraded from the place it always held, there is no wonder that a loud demand has arisen for its restoration. Our own country happens just now to be the greatest producer of silver. Is it for us to take so leading a part in bringing it into discredit?

The question arises, must the public credit or be paid exclusively in gold? In no act authorizing the debt is there such stipulation. The contract was to pay in the coin of the United States. This included silver as well as gold. A few years ago gold was three or four per cent. cheaper than silver. It was not repudiation then to pay in depreciated gold coins. But the values of the metals have now changed relatively, and silver is at a discount. Does this fact alter the conditions of the contract? The country will not see it so. Great quantities of the bonds were taken in Europe and paid for with silver coins. The United States did not engage to be responsible for fluctuations in the values of the metals. This is a species of underwriting which prudent legislation would scarcely undertake.

MAGNUM BONUM SHIRTS!

For sale by

FISHEL & ROBERTS,

Cor. First and Washington Sts.

THESE SHIRTS FULLY BEAR OUT THEIR name, and are regarded by all who have worn them to be par excellence of Shirts. The arrangement of making the Magnum Bonum, on which the Patent has been granted, is simply that of closing the side of the shirt all the way down to bottom of hem, and that of having the shirt opened in the center of the front and back about seven inches from the bottom hem. The undeniable advantages are briefly: It covers the legs and hips and does not work up uncomfortably, like an ordinary shirt; it always keeps its place, not only around the bosom but on the back; it does not contain any surplus material, and can be folded smoothly and laid away without creasing. It is the most convenient shirt for traveling by rail, carriage or horseback, because it works all the cloth downward in each drawer leg. It is manufactured from the very best material, and is bound to supersede all other styles of shirts in use.

A simple trial of this Shirt will prove to the wearer all that is claimed for it.

CITY.

ACCIDENT TO CAPTAIN SLADEN.—Captain M Wilkinson received a telegram from Gen Howard Saturday afternoon to the effect that Capt James A Sladen of his staff had met with a severe accident at that place and that he (Howard) would have to take him over to Cape Hancock This will certainly be sad news to the many friends of Captain Sladen in this city and elsewhere Months ago this gallant little officer while on an official visit to Fort Walla Walla was thrown from a horse and the bone of his right leg so badly fractured that in order to save his life the leg had to be amputated below the knee The severe nervous shock and the effects of the amputation prostrated Captain Sladen and for many weeks rendered him a helpless invalid He had recently recovered from his illness and was able to discharge his official duties when this second misfortune overtook him Captain Sladen had been detailed for court martial duty at Fort Townsend, but was excused from serving last week Friday evening he went down on the Bonita for a few days sojourn at the seaside and while at Astoria met with the accident No particulars are furnished by the dispatch but the supposition is that he fell as he was going ashore or going on board the boat, and badly injured his maimed limb

A THOROUGHBRED MARE AND COLT.—The thoroughbred running mare Emma McCormick arrived in this city Saturday from Eastern Oregon accompanied by a colt about two months old. This, we believe, is the only thoroughbred sucking colt ever brought to this State The dam and colt have just been purchased by J. A. Coyran for the sum of $1 400 The colt will be taken from its mother at once and the mare placed in training for the fall races as the companion of the noted racehorse Oregon by the well known trainer Johnny Mc[illegible] These animals will go into training at the White House track which is now in splendid condition for working horses Emma McCormick is one of the finest racers ever brought to this State About two years ago she was imported from Kentucky to Boise and was brought down to Walla Walla to the races there last year, and run against Osceola She was sired by Australia dam by Mi[illegible] Adair sire by imported Lusbar Her colt is a chestnut filly, foaled on the 10th of last June, sired by Planter, he by Planet, dam of Katie Pease, Hubbard and numerous other good race horses With this new stock in the field, Oregon horses will have to do some "tall scratching" to carry off the prizes this fall.

GOLD LOST.—Mr. A. Mathiot writes from Woodburn station under date of the 19th inst "Noticing an article in a recent issue of a Portland paper in regard to gold at the head waters of the Molalla, and having just returned from that part of the country I will say that I found nothing in the shape of gold, and was hardly able to find my way out of the mountains, being lost without food for two days The only living thing I saw during two days was a monstrous bear that met me on a log and came very near me Although I was hungry, I had no weapons of any kind, so I did not get any bear steak A number assert that they have found gold, and I believe that they have, but prospecting under such difficulties has knocked the mining fever out of me. Five of us just came in this afternoon, bringing some kind of metal in a yeast powder can, and we shall soon find out what it is Four of us started out in the mountains at the same time, and as they did not encounter each other in that vicinity, each party accuses the others with being lost As for myself, I plead guilty A Portland editor started out in that section a few days ago, and by this time is probably handsomely lost."

OVERBOARD.—Saturday, as the steamer Bonita was pushing off from the wharf, after discharging a "passenger," the stern struck a pile a vigorous blow with her guard, which shock proved unfortunate for Mr. Jas. Lowe, who was standing on his feet then, but immediately thereafter landed on his head—"figuratively,"—in the water under the wharf, creating quite an excitement, as a number of persons shouted "man overboard!" on seeing Mr. L[illegible], who was unable to swim, struggling in the water Mr. O'Neil, purser, happened to be standing near at the time, and without waiting a moment slid down the side of the boat and jumped into the water to rescue Mr. L., who had already sunk twice. Meanwhile a boat was sent out from shore Mr O'Neil held the sinking man by the hair and supported him until the boat came to his aid They were all hauled into the boat and wended their way, "after man"—homeward, whilst the spectators, who had witnessed the daring act of Mr. O'Neil in thus risking his life to save another, cheered him and expressed their admiration of his act of humanity

BITTEN BY A FISH BITE.—A young man, whose name we have not been able to ascertain, engaged in catching salmon on the Columbia some two weeks since, was bitten by one of the fish on the little finger, just above the nail. The wound was very slight as the teeth of the salmon simply penetrating the skin, and hardly drawing blood It was considered of no importance at the time, and he continued his work without stopping to give it any attention Soon after the finger became inflamed and began swelling hurting him severely. The inflammation and swelling extended to his hand and arm, and the finger began to ulcerate. It continued to grow worse, the pain and swelling increasing all the time and all treatment applied to the affected part failed to afford any relief Being brought to this Fort Townsend last week on the Eliza [illegible] while there he was compelled to have his arm amputated just above its junction with the body Had not the operation been performed as soon as it was, it is probable he would have lost his hand.

ACCIDENT.—Mr. W K Smith while riding horseback Saturday evening, met with an accident by which he sustained a compound fracture of the left leg, and other injuries He was riding down Fourth street, and coming to a sidling and slippery portion of the roadway, his horse suddenly slipped and fell Mr Smith s left leg was caught under the animal and the limb was violently jammed against the plank that [illegible] fractured in two places—just above the ankle joint In falling the pommel of the saddle struck Mr Smith on the [illegible] injuring him severely Fortunately, the horse rose to his feet immediately thus relieving the broken limb from the weight or the injuries might have been far more serious The disabled gentleman was taken home and the necessary surgical attention be[illegible] He is getting along comfortably, but [illegible] will keep him in doors for some time.

A STOLEN WATCH.—A few days ago a carpenter in this city lost a valuable watch under circumstances as would tend to make the whole person suspect that some thieving gentleman (?) had a hand in its disappearance Just before commencing work, the carpenter pulled off his vest and hung it up in one of the apartments of the building where he was employed Some time after when quitting work he found to his surprise that a valuable silver watch which he had left in one pocket was gone A Chinaman who had been seen loitering about the premises is suspected of the theft Leaving watches jewelry and purses and "filthy lucre" hanging loosely around scarcely be regarded as an economical course Aside from the danger of losing the articles, it is subjecting members of the Chinese light brigade to a cruel temptation as the fewest of them have the virtue to fully withstand

A BIG SHIP ARRIVED—The ship Dunt Bar arrived at this port yesterday forenoon and is moored at the foot of D street The Dunt is an iron ship of 944 tons burden and comes from Europe by way of Australia and [illegible] The bark Dora, from San Francisco arrived here yesterday with a miscellaneous cargo

SHAFT BROKEN—Saturday afternoon while the steamer Dixie Thompson was on her way to Astoria and about ten miles above that point one end of the shaft was partially fractured For the remainder of the distance the boat was compelled to run with one engine The damage will probably be temporarily repaired so as to enable the boat to reach Portland this evening The Dixie seems to be unfortunate in breaking shafts Some time ago the shaft was broken short off when the steamer was a short distance below the city, rendering it necessary for the company to send below for a new one and placing the boat in ordinary for a month and only last week a crank pin gave way which occasioned several days delay

RETURNED—The steamer Bonita arrived at an early hour last evening with the following passengers homeward bound from the sea side Mr C H Lewis and family, Mr P Lippitt and family Mrs Teal and family, Mrs J Jacobs and family Mrs Loewenberg and family Mr and Mrs Mesick Mrs Fassell and nephew Master Burnside, Miss F Burnside Miss Dora Brown Mr Chas Rosenbaum Mr W Joel Hogan Mr F C Houtoon and Chas Bacon Jr They all return with pleasant recollections of their summer trip and invigorated in health and spirits

FROM KALAMA—Our regular, writing from Kalama, Saturday, says The negro Jack Buford spoken of in yesterday s paper as having been arrested for an assault was examined before Justice Woolsey and, in default of bail, committed to jail to await the action of the next grand jury * * * We are reliably informed that a family living on the Cowheman a tributary of the Cowlitz, have the smallpox The place is three or four miles from Freeport The disease was contracted on the John L Stephens, during her late trip "

LOST, STRAYED OR STOLEN—Four "prints" from this office started out on Saturday morning last on a hunting and fishing excursion, since which time nothing has been heard of them A liberal reward will be paid for any information that will lead to their safe return A company of volunteers started in search of them on Saturday evening but with what success we are not advised

BRIEF NOTES.

Cool weather for August, this

State Teachers Institute at Salem this week

The steamer Gov Grover is now at the bone yard

Special meeting of Pioneer B B C this evening

Board of county commissioners will be in session to-day.

Counterfeit dimes are said to be in circulation Look out for them

In about two weeks a number of private schools in the city will open

No new cases of smallpox developed Portland has been exceedingly fortunate this season.

Wm Beck & Son are removing to more commodious quarters, north of their present store.

Two young hoodlums in East Portland were arrested last week. They were charged with larceny.

A large number of farm wagons are standing on C street, evidently placed there for want of storage elsewhere

Mattison, the man who shot Miss Rogers at Astoria, has been sentenced to one year's imprisonment in the State penitentiary

Regular meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Exempt Firman's Association will be held at Council chamber this evening

Messrs Holman & Gilman's new tug is lying at the Oregon Iron Works In a few days the machinery and boiler will be placed on board.

A house was burglarized in East Portland last week Only thing missed was a quantity of cooked food. The burglars had an optic to "biz"

Special meeting of Common Council this evening when it is to be hoped that the vexed question of who is to be city attorney street commissioner and assessor will be settled

Corbitt & Macleay are the consignees of the British ship St Andrew s Castle and not as agnees as the printer set it up in the advertisement on Saturday Quite a difference

Preparations are being crowded forward with all possible dispatch and it is expected that the new government revenue cutter will be launched Wednesday of the present week

Our boys and girls do not feel so happy as they did some weeks ago—say at the commencement of vacation This day two weeks and studies will be resumed in the public schools

The report is in circulation that the N & N Telegraph Co will soon have their lines in working order As we have heard this so long and so often a great measure of credence cannot be attached to such rumors

Besides the several large brick buildings now in course of construction in the business portion of Portland, a number of dwelling houses are being erected Despite the cry of dull times the city is moving forward

The launch of the new revenue cutter from the ways, in Albina, which is to take place one day this week, will be a sight well worth witnessing If the day is favorable there will probably be present a thousand persons

The O & C R R ferry now lies way up on the eastern bank Most of the old plank on the hull has been removed preparatory to putting on new lumber The craft is to receive a complete overhauling, before going into service again

There are several young ladies in this city who take an hour s exercise each day in rowing, for the benefit of their health Nothing better calculated to cultivate muscle and impart health than rowing Ladies of delicate constitutions should emulate the example thus set

MAJOR RENO'S REPORT

THE PLAN OF BATTLE—ATTACK ON THE VILLAGE —THE REPULSE—THE RETREAT TO THE BLUFFS —A DESPERATE DEFENSE—VAST NUMBERS OF THE INDIANS

[From the Army and Navy Journal.]

As we approached a deserted village in which was standing one tepee about 11 a m Custer motioned me to cross to him which I did and moved nearer to his column until about 12 30 A M when Lieut Cooke adjutant came to me and said the village was only two miles ahead and the Indians running away To move forward at as rapid gait as I thought prudent and to charge afterward and that the whole outfit would support me I think those were his exact words I at once took a fast trot and moved down about two miles when I came to a ford of the river I crossed immediately and halted about ten minutes or less to gather the battalion sending word to Custer that I had everything in front of me and that they were strong I deployed and, with the Ree scouts on my left charged down the valley driving the Indians with great ease for about 2½ miles I however soon saw that I was being drawn into some trap as they certainly would fight harder and especially as we were nearing their village which was still standing besides I could not see Custer or any other support and at the same time the very earth seemed to grow Indians, and they were running to wards me in swarms and from all directions I saw I must defend myself and give up the attack mounted This I did taking possession of a point of woods and which furnished near its edge a shelter for the horses dismounted and fought them on foot making headway through the wood I soon found myself in the near vicinity of the village, saw that I was fighting odds of at least five to one and that my only hope was to get out of the wood where I would soon have been surrounded and gain some high ground I marched to the summit of the highest bluff but seeing and hearing nothing of Custer sent Captain Weir with his company to open communication with the other command He soon sent back word by Lieut. Hare that he could go no further and that the Indians were getting around him at this time he was keeping up a heavy fire from his skirmish line I at once turned everything back to the first position I had taken on the bluff, and which seemed to me the best I dismounted the men had the horses and mules of the pack train driven together in a depression put the men on the crests of the hills making the depression and had hardly done so when I was furiously attacked this was about 6 P M we held our ground with the loss of 18 enlisted men killed and 46 wounded until the attack ceased about 9 P M As I knew by this time their overwhelming numbers, and had given up any support from the portion of the regiment with Custer I had the men dig rifle-pits, barricaded with dead horses mules, and boxes of hard bread the opening of the depression toward the Indians in which the animals were herded and made every exertion to be ready for what I saw would be a terrific assault the next day All this night the men were busy, and the Indians holding a scalp dance underneath us in the bottom and in our hearing On the morning of the 26th I felt confident that I could hold my own, and was ready as far as I could be when at daylight about 2 30 A M, I heard the crack of two rifles This was the signal for the beginning of a fire which I have never seen equaled Every rifle was handled by an expert and skilled marksman, and with a range that exceeded our carbine and it was simply impossible to show any part of the body before it was struck We could see as the day brightened, countless hordes of them pouring up the valley from out the village, and scampering over the high points toward the places designated for them by their chiefs, and which entirely surrounded our position They had sufficient numbers to completely encircle us, and men were struck on the opposite sides of the lines from where the shots were fired I think we were fighting all the Sioux nation, and also all the desperadoes renegades half-breeds and squaw men between the Missouri and the Arkansas, and east of the Rocky Mountains They must have numbered at least 2 500 warriors The fire did not slacken until about 9 30 A M and then we discovered that they were making a last desperate attempt, and which was directed against the lines held by Companies H and M In this attack they charged close enough to use their bows and arrows and one man lying dead within our lines was touched by the "coup stick" of one of the foremost Indians. When I say the stick was only about 10 or 12 feet long, some idea of the desperate and reckless fighting of those people may be understood About 2 P M the grass in the bottom was set on fire and followed up by the Indians who encouraged its burning, and it was evident it was done for a purpose—which purpose I discovered later on, to be the creation of a dense cloud of smoke, behind which they were packing and preparing to move their tepees It was between 6 and 7 P M that the village came out from behind the clouds of smoke and dust. We had a close and good view of them as they filed away in the direction of Big Horn Mountains moving in almost perfect military order the length of the column was fully equal to that of a large division of the Cavalry Corps of the Army of the Potomac, as I have seen it on its march * * *

After following over his trail it is evident to me that Custer intended to support me by moving further down the stream and attacking the village in flank that he found the distance greater to the ford than he anticipated that he did charge but his march had taken so long, although his trail shows he moved rapidly that they were ready for him that Companies C and I and perhaps part of Company F crossed to the village or attempted it at the charge, and were met by a staggering fire and that they fell back to secure a position from which to defend themselves but they were followed too closely by the Indians to permit him to form any kind of a line I think had the regiment gone in as a body and, from the woods in which I fought, advanced on the village, that its destruction was certain, but he was fully confident they were running, or he would not have turned from me I think (after the great number of Indians there were in the village) that the following reasons obtained for the misfortune His rapid marching for two days and one night before the fight attacking in the day time at 12 M and when they were on the qui vive instead of early in the morning and lastly his unfortunate division of the regiment into three commands

SILVER IS NOT THE CONTRACT

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

Your correspondent "Cato" urges as our national obligations are payable in coin it is right to make depreciated silver coin with which to pay them When these obligations were created the only silver coin in circulation was the parts of the dollar which were coined short 93 0-100 cents per one dollar and were but tokens and legal tender in sums of five dollars only The silver dollar was undervalued and consequently was not in circulation It was worth more than the gold dollar and the few coined were shipped abroad or reduced to bullion To prevent this being done with the parts of the dollar and to keep them in the country for use as change Congress in 1853 overvalued them making them worth but 93 0-100 cents on the dollar When our present national obligations were created the government could have only understood they were payable in such coin as was then in circulation—gold coin The silver dollar was not in circulation and the government did not understand it was to pay its bonds in that coin as it was worth more than gold Now the discovery of vast masses of silver in Nevada and the demonetization of that metal in Germany, following the example of all the great nations has reduced the value about twenty per cent it is proposed to coin it into depreciated dollars and pay the national debt—held largely in Europe—with it One result would be the utter destruction of all American credit there for the next fifty years Then too the savings banks of the United States hold nearly half as much as the amount of the national debt the accumulations mainly of poor people They too would be paid off in this depreciated coin worth eighty cents on the dollar It has been well said that the propensity to cheat somebody while claiming to be honest is at the bottom of the silver agitation

"Cato's suggestion that the legislature of Oregon declare silver a legal tender, if adopted will be comparatively harmless except to the good name of the State All promissory notes and contracts are here made for gold coin and the court of last resort has decided such contracts to be binding, regardless of legal tender laws It would only then be left for some rogue to cheat a laboring man whose contracts are not usually in writing and for gold coin by paying him in depreciated silver as he can, and sometimes now does do by greenbacking him

RHYMES AT RANDOM

This poem is made of single lines from twenty five English and American poets, beginning with Longfellow and ending with Byron

'Pearls at random strung
By future poets shall be sung

"The night has come, but not too soon,
Westward the course of empire takes its way
Ye banks and braes of bonnie Doon
Blue spirits and white, black spirits and gray

"Rocked in the cradle of the deep,
Old Casper's work was done
Piping on hollow reeds to his pent sheep
Charge, Chester, charge! On, Stanley, on!

"There was a sound of revelry by night
On Linden when the sun was low
A voice replied far up the height
Tall oaks from little acorns grow

"What if a little rain should say
I have not loved the world, nor the world me
Ah! well a day!
Woodman, spare that tree!

"My heart leaps up with joy to see
A primrose by the water's brim
Zaccheus he did climb the tree
Few of our youth could cope with him

"The prayer of Ajax was for light,
The light that never was on sea or shore
Pudding and beef make Britons fight
Never more!

"Under a spreading chestnut tree,
For hours together sat,
I and my Annabel Lee,
A man's a man for a' that.

"Truth crushed to earth shall rise again
And waste its sweetness on the desert air
In thunder, lightning, or in rain,
None but the brave deserve the fair

"Tell me not in mournful numbers,
The child is father of the man,
Hush, my dear, be still and slumber,
They can conquer who believe they can

"A change came o'er the spirit of my dream,
Whatever is, is right,
And things are not what they seem,
My native land, good night!'

THE DANCE OF FOOLS

[Marie T. Courcelles, in Cincinnati Enquirer.]

During the empire, ladies whose only literature was their toilet, whose only domestic [illegible]—what was going on at the Tuileries,' looked to the Empress as the model for fashion, and copied her. To-day there is no model, unless some queen of the demi monde exhibits herself in some outre costume and all copy her. In view of the present reign of extravagance, Alfonse Karr would have just cause to recapitulate the remarks he made on the extravagance of female dress during the empire, when he said 'There is no other [illegible] for a poor man but to love his neighbor's wife.' * * * The ladies have a new way of wearing their veils. They tie them on the back of the hat with a large ornament, the shape of a shell, then tie them around the [illegible] and fasten them on to the left side [illegible] is odd and conspicuous [illegible] at the races where one [illegible] the fair, but frail, sisterhood [illegible] the example. It requires a great quantity of tulle to carry out the effect of this [illegible] conspicuous mode. * * * Imagine a single under-garment of a lady costing [illegible] for plain silk and $30 for embroidery, and [illegible] with this costly [illegible] a modest woman would scarcely dare present herself to her husband. I could scarcely believe there was a woman who indulged in such luxuries, but my [illegible] was soon turned into conviction. I was at the house of the Countess M[illegible], a charming lady of wealth and position, who in a friendly way admitted me to the privacy of her dressing-room. When she completed her bath the first garment she put on was an Oriental bath-wrapper which cost $300. I [illegible] so much curiosity at her [illegible] that she said "Wait and see how much I'm worth when dressed," and, as a matter of course, I took note of her personal [illegible] as she dressed, and give it as a [illegible] of how much money may be [illegible] in luxuries. Her chemise was pale blue, very richly embroidered in white silk, all [illegible]

Here was the petite brunette dressed plainly, yet as she stood she was worth in dry goods and jewels (omitting her bracelets) over $2,000 in her promenade costume, not to mention her other toilets. Worth has some ladies who spend $12,000 a year for dress

[illegible] THINGS.—A young man, [illegible] of poor but honest parents, went to see his [illegible] on Thursday night. Her younger brother, during the "primping interval," entertained the beau as follows

"Sis says she's goin' ter shake you, she is?"

"Ah!" exclaimed the astonished young man

"Yes, she is, she's got you down on the slate for a gran' bounce, she has!"

"Why, how—"

"Well, now ther ain't no use for you to chaw dictionary 'bout it 'neether, 'cause ther ain't no discount on sis—she's a bully ole gal when she starts!"

"My goodness grac—"

"She sez she goes out with you an' tramps 'round jess as lonesome as some ole married cow, an' when yer treats it ain't ter nothin but cheap ole sody water at er nickle a quart!"

The young man sighed and reached for a fan

"She sez she wants a feller thet's got sum style about him an' kin set up a square meal fer his gal when he takes her a gallavantin, she does!"

The young man rummaged for his handkerchief

"I tell yer wot it is, boss, my sis ain't no slouch, an' when she gits a crank in her hed, dad sez she grinds it wuss nor our ole ricketty coffee-mill. She's goin' fer yer an' she'll tell all the other gals ter shoot the miser an' yer jess bet they'll do it 'cause they cant go back on sis—not much!"

The young man was climbing down the front steps.

Just then sis entered and Johnnie explained how he had "giv' the ole dug out a big wabble"

But Johnnie's opinion since his daddy let go of him, is that if he had been Sitting Bull during the performance he would now be sore in a different locality.—Atlanta Constitution

Dore has never married but he has had his dream. In youth he loved a beautiful woman who rejected him because of les convenances. She became the wife of a South American who brutally maltreated her and who is now serving a term of eight years in prison for attempting to kill her. The artist having dreamed his dream collected his senses attended to his business grew rich and cynical and now rejoices that his youthful attachment had no more serious consequences for him. If he had married her his life might have been a failure

Dr LeMoyne of Washington Pa has built a vault which he grandiloquently calls a Temple to Cremation. He has decided that the Temple shall not be used for the purpose for which it is intended until after his death. It is presumed that he prefers not to endure the mortification of seeing so beautiful a structure reduced to base uses

The usual amount of business is [illegible] at the local banks and the outlook is not regarded as discouraging though all admit that the season's operations so far have resulted rather unsatisfactorily. Rates are unchanged and the fair supply of available funds on hand insures applicants for accommodations who proffer prime commercial paper or first class security a favorable reception. The silver question is in statu quo, nor do we look for much change until by the result of the law of supply and demand the overplus of that coin finds its way out of our market. The proposition to have our State Legislature pass a law making it legal tender for any amount would only increase the evil sought to be remedied by drawing a large quantity of the metal here

By a law of California all banks and bankers doing business in that State are required to make and publish in January and July of each year a statement of their assets and liabilities. Ninety four banking institutions in the State have reported and show a total capital of $[illegible] deposits $11[illegible] cash $2[illegible]141,300. Many of the banks have a larger authorized subscribed capital but only the actually paid up capital is given. All the banks report a surplus or reserve fund varying in amount which is loanable but there is no account of it in the figures given though in the case of the Hibernia Savings and Loan Society of San Francisco this reserve fund amounts to over $1 000 000. The private banking firms have generally refused to publish statements under the law claiming that they are not incorporated

In local trade matters there is nothing new to record. The grain and wool markets have each maintained the tendency noticed a few days ago the former showing weaker symptoms and the latter being firm at quotations

Boston Wool Market.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]

BOSTON Aug 19—The demand for wool continues good and prices are well sustained and a shade higher for all desirable fleeces. Transactions were 2,383,500 pounds. Sales would have been much larger were it not for comparatively small amounts of fleeces offering. Sales of Ohio and Pennsylvania fleeces have been 419 000 pounds almost exclusively fine wools and include medium and extra at 35@38c. Some desirable No 1 at 40c XX at 38@40c XX and super at 40@42½c. From 40@42½c has been offered and refused for large lots of XX. Michigan and Wisconsin wools are firm at 35@38c for medium and No 1 with more inquiry for medium. Buyers are now turning their attention to medium and No 1. Combing and delaine have been in better demand with sales of 250 000 pounds. Prices have advanced from 3 to 5c on opening prices. Some lots of domestic combing have been sold as high as 47½@48c and 50c and fine delaine has been sold to some extent at 38a 42½c. Most desirable lots of domestic combing are now firm at 48a50c. Round lots are more saleable and command higher prices than small lots. California still meets with ready sale and extreme prices continue to be obtained for all choice and desirable lots, and further sales have been made as high as 30a30c for choice, but inferior and burry can only be forced off at low figures. Sales of the week have been near 1 000 000 pounds. Pulled wools have been rather quiet sales of the week comprising only 171,000 pounds but prices remain the same. The bulk of sales of super and X have been in the range of 32@39c, the latter for choice Eastern and Maine

Chicago Produce Markets.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]

CHICAGO Aug 19—The produce markets have shown little life since last week. Wheat closes to day at 87 cents for No 2 spring against 85½ cents last Thursday. Toward the close of the week a better demand sprung up here in the city, doubtlessly by increased firmness in New York and a strengthened tone in English markets. Receipts have been somewhat larger but are still insignificant, being for the week 88 030 bushels against 297 000 bushels in 1875. Very little of the new wheat has yet been threshed, but what has gone through the machines fully realizes the predictions as to the fine milling quality. The weather continues fine and rain falls in small quantity without doing damage to crops not fully secured. Winter wheat which does not figure much in this market, has suffered much more than spring but it will be a good yield wherever grown. Corn is still coming in great quantities and prices not materially changed. Oats are steady with prospects of dull [illegible]. The indications just now are for still lower prices later, or in the fall for all cereals though there seems a reasonable prospect of a temporary rise in the interim. The prevailing depression in all kinds of business exerts an influence on change, and both cliques are more careful of committing themselves to a decided move than they would be in more favorable times.

VALUABLE LANDS FOR SALE.

600,000 Acres in

EASTERN OREGON!

For Farming and Grazing Purposes.

THESE LANDS ARE SITUATED IN WASCO Grant and Baker counties and are offered for sale in such sized tracts not less than 160 acres as purchasers may desire. Here is afforded a most favorable opportunity to immigrants and settlers seeking homes and low priced land to acquire both on the most reasonable terms. These lands are excellent for farming and grazing. On most of the tracts no grubbing or other preparation of the land for plowing is requisite. A growth of nutricious grass covers the uplands affording the best of pasturage while in the valleys and bottom lands the grass can be mowed and made into hay. Living springs and streams water the lands in various directions. The uplands or rolling lands can be put into crops with the most satisfactory return. Fruit particularly peaches plums grapes apples pears and cherries, as well as the smaller fruits can be grown in great abundance. The climate of Eastern Oregon is very healthful. Flourishing towns are located at convenient points for traffic. The mails are regularly conveyed throughout that section and a prosperous population is already established occupied in farming stock growing mining and various other pursuits.

Terms $1 25 per acre and upwards according to quality and quantity. Interest ten per cent on deferred payments

4,000 ACRES, IN QUANTITIES TO SUIT PURCHASERS.

230 ACRES DUE SOUTH AND ADJOINING the Railroad Depot at Salem all under cultivation and suitable for grain or vegetables

946 Acres four miles southeast of Salem on the railroad with Mill creek running through it. This is the choicest farming land in Marion county with fine springs consisting in part of the old Reeser donation claim on which I raised the past year fifty bushels of wheat and three tons of timothy per acre. The first crop of oats ever raised on part of this land measured ninety four bushels per acre grain weighed and ground chained by Mr Alfred Stanton of Salem

2,700 Acres of prairie and light brush land with timber for farming purposes bounded by the Willamette River for four miles beautiful lake on the east boat landings all along the river commencing four miles north of Salem—all choice grain land—the largest and most suitable body of land to be found in the Willamette Valley to be purchased by a colony. To be sold from $15 to $25 per acre. This land will all be immediately resurveyed and can be sold in larger or smaller parcels to suit purchasers. It can be subdivided to the best possible advantage and I can offer any person or persons or colony of persons desiring to purchase homes in the best part of the Willamette Valley near the city of Salem and within reach of the best social advantages as well as most favorably located with respect to markets greater advantages on more favorable terms than they can ever expect to realize again
